

British Ambassador Returns To Berlin

Nazi View He May Have Some Proposals

LONDON, April 24.—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that there was "no special significance" in the return of British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson to Berlin.

Chamberlain explained Sir Neville had been called home from Berlin originally to report on the German annexation of Bohemia and Moravia and that after he had a short period of leave he had been instructed to return.

The prime minister added that this action did not mean that Britain was recognizing the Nazi annexation of Czechoslovak territory or Italy's conquest of Albania.

The prime minister returned to discuss Anglo-Russian negotiations in Moscow despite persistent labor appeals.

He replied:
"I do not think it desirable to make premature statements on negotiations which still are in progress."

A foreign office spokesman earlier had said the sudden return of Sir Neville to Berlin "definitely does not indicate any change in Britain's new firm stand against aggression."

The spokesman acknowledged, however, if Chamberlain had any message for Chancellor Hitler before the fuhrer's answer to President Roosevelt's non-aggression appeal, the ambassador would be the natural medium for conveyance.

One usually reliable source said that the British charge d'affaires in Berlin, Sir George Ogilvie-Forbes, had requested that Sir Neville return.

The foreign office spokesman admitted, if Chamberlain had any message "it would carry more weight if the ambassador delivered it."

Sir Neville left unexpectedly for Berlin yesterday. He had been called home March 18 "to report on Germany's invasion of Bohemia and Moravia. The move was regarded as a diplomatic rebuke.

Strengthen Ties
The British were busy with efforts to strengthen their ties with Rumania through Grigore Garenuc, Rumanian foreign minister. Coincidentally they tried to speed increases in army strength and to put the empire's financial house in order.

Garenuc, and his minister to London, Vioril Virgil Tita, talked to Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, and his aides for two hours before an official foreign office luncheon in Garenuc's honor, which Chamberlain, after a morning conference with Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, attended. Among the distinguished guests were the veteran statesman Winston Churchill and former foreign secretary Anthony Eden.

Earlier, Churchill supported Britain's new recruiting drive, saying: "It is increasingly probable that we shall have compulsory national service before long."

Chancellor of the exchequer Sir John Simon will introduce in the house of commons tomorrow his eagerly-awaited annual budget estimates.

Because of enormous rearmament expenses, the total budget for the 1939-40 financial year is expected to be about 1,278,000,000 pounds (about $5,980,000,000) as

Past President of Press Group Dies
MOBERLY, Mo., April 24.—(P)—J. R. Lowell, 86, a past president of the Missouri Press Association, died Saturday. He edited the Moberly Democrat for 25 years before that paper was merged with the Moberly Monitor-Index. Lowell once served as postmaster and held several city and county offices.

Head Camp Of WOW Opens Sessions Here

Welcome Address At Bothwell Hotel By Mayor Bagby

The Head Camp convention of the Missouri Woodmen of the World convened at Hotel Bothwell this morning, with Gus A. Weiss, St. Louis, presiding and Frank J. Stetina, St. Louis, head clerk.

After the drill teams had seated the national and head officers, Rev. T. H. Swearingin, of Sedalia, offered a prayer. Then followed the placing of the flag by Capt. Ed Loos, St. Louis and Captain Sherman Bess, St. Louis, and the song, "America," led by W. M. Johns.

Mayor Julian H. Bagby, welcoming the guests, expressed pleasure at having the Woodmen meet in Sedalia, recalled they had met here six years ago, and hoped they would enjoy themselves to the extent they would want to return.

Responding Judge A. Evans Hughes, Clayton, compared America of today with troubled European countries, declaring that the early Americans had gone through strife and turmoil, such as Europe has today. Out of it had come Americanism which led to fraternalism, and the W. O. W. today is one of the highest ideals of fraternalism, he said.

Miss Frances Ferguson, St. Louis, welcoming the delegates for the Woodmen Circle expressed appreciation to former state manager Claude Manlove and to the present manager, W. G. McClain, for cooperation in her work with the women. Mr. McClain, state manager of Springfield, replying, said he was happy in his work in Missouri, having come here recently from W. O. W. work in Texas, and said he would be satisfied only when he had brought about individual leadership in this state.

Would Unify Relief Groups

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), the Democratic leader, said today that President Roosevelt would send congress tomorrow a proposal to overhaul completely federal relief agencies.

Barkley told reporters that a half dozen relief agencies would be merged into a new, unified relief system.

There will be some central control over all relief activities, the senator said, but declined to say what agency would exercise it.

Barkley disclosed the reorganization proposal after the regular Monday conference between President Roosevelt and his legislative leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt will act, Barkley said, under provisions of the recently-enacted government reorganization bill.

Two Runs Sunday Made By Firefighters
The fire companies made two runs Sunday, the first at 6:52 o'clock in the morning to 110 East Henry street, where the roof of the dwelling had caught fire from sparks from a burning flue.

Damage of about $25 resulted. J. E. Thornton, colored, resides in the house.

A burning flue at the home of J. W. Larabee, 1804 West Eleventh street, caused a run at 12:50 o'clock in the afternoon.

Methodism To Converge To Pass On Unity Plan

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—Methodism's roads to unity converge here this week.

Beginning Wednesday, 900 delegates from the long-separated church factions meet to harmonize the three disciplines—the laws of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church. The plan of union has been approved by the memberships.

The result will be a church with a membership of nearly 8,000,000—the largest Protestant group in America—with 45,000 churches and properties valued at $70,000,000. Salient organizational features of all three churches will be included in the new code of Wesleyan church discipline.

Bishop J. Ralph Magee, St. Paul, chairman of the board of pensions and relief of the North church summed up the features each church will contribute.

"The plan calls for a judicial council of nine men, a supreme court, taken from the South church. It will use central conferences for foreign memberships, granting them considerable autonomy, taken from the North church's system. From the Methodist Protestant church it takes the idea of a layman as president of the official board of each local church.

"The emphasis on lay representation and a check on the power of the bishops also is carried out by the rule which gives a bishop administration only in the jurisdiction from which he is elected."

Plan Six Jurisdictions
An additional feature, Bishop Magee explained, "is the system of six regional jurisdictions for the United States, with each jurisdiction having a certain amount of autonomous power apart from the rulings of the general conference, or supreme legislative body."

"Thus the new church," he added, "while closely knit in Episcopal fashion with bishops as administrators, is also democratic in final analysis, with legislative control vested in broad membership representation."

Young Democrats To Meet
There will be an important meeting of the Young Democratic club in the assembly room of the court house at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Garner Tries To Stay Friendly

Not Lead Anti- Roosevelt Forces In The Senate

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(P)—Vice President Garner was reported by friends today to have declined to assume leadership over anti-Roosevelt Democrats in the senate.

These informants said that Garner, maintaining friendly relations with the White House since the session started, has decided to keep a hands-off attitude in any arguments between the President and his critics in congress.

Early in the session, there were indications Garner might act as a behind-the-scenes strategist against various administration spending proposals. Since then, however, he has been discussed widely as a possible presidential candidate in 1940. Senate sources said this has placed him in a position where it would appear he was striving for personal advantage if he actively opposed presidential policies.

In former years, Garner has spoken his mind freely at cabinet meetings. On more than one occasion he has been credited with organizing capital opposition to New Deal proposals.

In recent months, it was reported reliably, he has maintained a noncommittal attitude in cabinet sessions and has limited his conversations with the President to casual jests.

Italy Claims An Axis Victory

ROME, April 24.—(P)—Italy claimed a new victory today for the Rome-Berlin axis.

Week-end conversations at Venice between Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Yugoslav Foreign Minister Alexander Cincarkovich ended yesterday with a statement promising "faithful collaboration" of Yugoslavia with Italy and Germany.

The same word—"faithful"—had been applied to Hungary's relations with the axis after talks earlier last week at Rome with Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleky and Foreign Minister Count Stephen Cskay visited Premier Mussolini and Ciano.

The first formal demonstration of Yugoslavia's relations with Italy, political sources said, will be a visit by recent Regent Prince Paul to King Vittorio Emanuel next month.

A further tightening of the axis lineup was expected through arrangement of a non-aggression pact between Hungary and Yugoslavia—at odds because part of Hungary's loss was Yugoslavia's gain in the World War territorial settlement.

Auto Upset In Striking Tree

A Chrysler pickup truck driven by J. E. Miller, 1526 East Fourth street, overturned at Third street and Lafayette avenue, about midnight Saturday night, crashing into a small tree on the north side of Third street, tearing it up by the roots.

Miller accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fisher and baby, was headed south on Washington avenue and had turned east on Third street. The driver said the left front wheel apparently locked which caused him to lose control of the car.

In the front seat of the car was Miller and his wife and the Fisher baby. Only slight bruises were received by the occupants who were taken to the Bothwell hospital for treatment.

Officers For Women's Club

Miss Margaret A. Hickey, St. Louis, was re-elected president of the State Business and Professional Women's club at the state convention held in Moberly Saturday and Sunday. Others officers elected were: First vice-president, Miss Eunice Gardner, Kansas City; second vice-president, Miss Hallie B. Moore, Mason; third vice-president, Miss Lillian Sagorski, St. Louis; recording secretary, Miss Louise Seidel, Chillicothe; treasurer, Miss Eunice East, Springfield; directors, Miss Margaret Mohler, St. Joseph, and Miss Christine Hauschild, Columbia.

The support of the club was pledged to pending legislative bills to admit women to jury service and to establish a merit system for state employees.

The introduction of jury service for women was made by the Sedalia club, which started the proposition, and it was later taken up by other organizations.

Mrs. Elza P. Berry, a member of the state board, Miss Hazel Palmer and Mrs. Ruth Riley, of Sedalia, attended the convention.

Call Is Made For Recovery

GOP Demand Made As Hopkins Gives Message

WASHINGTON, April 24.—A Republican demand that congress lead the nation "back to recovery" shared attention today with a statement from Secretary Hopkins urging increased entrance of private capital into productive business.

While Rep. Martin (R-Mass), the minority floor leader, was offering a 12-point business program, Hopkins said last night in a radio message read by an assistant:

"We know that stimulation of recovery rests primarily upon resumption of the flow of private capital into productive enterprise."

"It has been this risk of investment funds—this willingness of business men to venture into new fields—that has supported a rising national income, increased our national wealth and provided jobs in the past."

Hopkins' views were expressed on an international radio program sponsored by the United States world's fair commission.

Martin declared in a statement issued through the Republican national committee that the only administration action to encourage business since a speech by Hopkins two months ago was a recommendation against increasing social security taxes.

Containing that administration leaders were "torn by conflicting opinions" over business improvement, Martin proposed that members of congress support any legislation which would:

1. Keep the United States out of war.
2. Curb unnecessary spending.
3. Repeal the undistributed corporate earnings tax.
4. Revise the federal tax structure.
5. Repeal the President's monetary powers.
6. Amend the Wagner labor relations act to clarify "mutual obligations of worker and employer."
7. Define specifically the area of government competition with private business.
8. Provide new markets for agricultural goods.
9. Rehabilitate the railroads.
10. Survey the effect of reciprocal trade treaties on industry and business.
11. Clarify federal rules and regulations.
12. "Reject all experimental legislation not clearly helpful in promoting recovery, or which would subject agriculture, labor or industry to compulsory decrees of a federal bureaucracy."

The report recommended also that capital stock and excess profits taxes be eliminated; that small corporations be given $3,000 credit in computing their income taxes; and that old age annuity rates under the social security act be reduced from 1 to 1/2 per cent. The administration already has proposed a temporary reduction of the annuity rates but congress has not yet acted.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The house approved today a $508,789,824 bill for the war department's defense activities in the year beginning July 1.

Medical Center Patient Drowns Self In Bathtub

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 24.—Albert H. Minton, 71, of Jonesboro, Ark., a patient in the U. S. medical center here, drowned himself in a bathtub at the prison Saturday night, Coroner John P. Ferguson announced today in returning a verdict of suicide. Minton was serving a year for evading a federal liquor tax.

Qualify Jury To Impose A Death Decree

Slight Delay For Trial Of Dr. La Mance Today

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., April 24. Jurors in the wife murder trial of Dr. William F. LaMance will be qualified for the death verdict, Charles Lawkin, a member of the prosecuting staff, said as selection of the jury began today.

Accompanied by his mother and attorneys, Dr. LaMance, 32-year-old former amateur boxer, arrived from his Laclede home shortly before 9 a. m. He wore a brown double breasted suit, brown shoes and a brown striped tie.

He was preceded into the courtroom by G. Derk Green, Linn county prosecutor, and chief of state's counsel.

The 450 seats in the Chariton county circuit court room filled slowly. Many were occupied by witnesses and others by prospective jurors. Judge James Rooney, of Liberty came here last night.

Addition of J. A. Collett, Salisbury attorney and father of Federal Judge John Caskie Collett, to the defense staff was disclosed as principals arrived.

Actual selection of a jury was delayed more than a half hour pending Collett's arrival.

Body Found In August
Many of the spectators came here from Laclede, boyhood home town of Gen John J. Pershing, where the body of pretty 29-year-old Ella LaMance was found last August 15.

Lon R. Owen, chief of defense counsel, announced as the trial opened that he would introduce depositions to show bloodspots found in the LaMance home came from catfish Dr. LaMance was cleaning the day the state charges he slew his wife.

Those blood stains form part of the evidence with which the state to support its contention that doctor killed his wife in a quarrel after he returned from drinking at taverns near Laclede last Aug. 9.

Dr. LaMance says, instead, that he returned home from fishing that day and was unable to find his wife at home. He decided to go to his mother's home at Manitou, Colo., to search for her.

His mother, Mrs. Lora LaMance, who will testify in his defense, induced him to return to Laclede to search there.

Back home August 14, Dr. LaMance enlisted the aid of officers in the hunt for his wife, Ella, former Kansas City nurse. Early the next morning they found her body in a fruit cellar adjoining the LaMance home.

The state charges Dr. LaMance carried her body there.

The defense sought to bring out at the preliminary hearing that Mrs. LaMance might have taken poison and wandered into the basement to die.

A state witness at the preliminary, Coroner John H. Lucas, said marks on Mrs. LaMance's body indicated she might have been killed by a blow struck by a fist.

Committees To Meet
For Convention

There will be a meeting at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the First Christian church of all the committees connected with the convention to begin Wednesday. This will be the final conference to arrange all matters pertaining to the receiving and entertainment of all who will be in attendance at the state convention.

Spirit Of Throne Is All Important In Britain

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, April 24.—Princess Elizabeth, heir to the British throne, has been celebrating her thirteenth birthday with an acquisition of prerogatives and a lengthening of dresses which proclaim that she is "grown-up"—well, almost, anyway.

To millions of fond subjects throughout the world's greatest empire she is a bright, wholly charming and lovable lass who one day—as the cards now lie—will reign in her own right and perhaps become another revered Queen Victoria, whom many older subjects still remember.

The ladies of the realm, too, like to mention over their tea cups that she will bring again to the throne the historic name of that Elizabeth of Shakespeare's day. This rather pleases the fancy of the public.

That is how her people as a whole regard her as she enters her first "teenth" year. But to a grey-haired prime minister in Downing Street, and to the other elder statesmen upon whose shoulders rests the security of empire, Princess Elizabeth is far more than this.

To them she is in the making

No Indictments From Pettis Grand Jury

Kenyon Doomed To Die Friday

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24.—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark said today "It is not my intention" to interfere with the execution of 22-year-old Robert Kenyon in the prison lethal gas chamber Friday.

Kenyon was condemned for one of the southern Ozarks' most noted crimes—the kidnap-slaying of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs January 26, 1937.

"I have had no requests made to me for a commutation," the governor said. "As I remember the circumstances, it was a brutal slaying."

Stark has not commuted a death penalty in his two years and three months in office. Kenyon made three futile attempts to the supreme court for a new trial.

Dr. Davis was the father of H. C. Davis of 1122 West Seventh, this city.

Courts Free Of Politics, Urge From Murphy

Attorney General Is Insistent They Be 'Clean'

NEW YORK, April 24.—Attorney General Murphy, declaring that it was a "bitter but undeniable fact" that courts have shrunk in public esteem, called today for definite action "to protect them from every influence that is degrading and unclean."

Addressing the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, Murphy spoke of "isolated cases of misconduct that have shocked us all," and said these steps were needed imperatively in the courts: "We must organize their work under careful administrative supervision."

"We must in every possible way keep them clear of politics and patronage."

"We must protect them from every influence that is degrading and unclean."

If the courts are not above suspicion, he told the editors and publishers, "then the preservation of civil liberties is not beyond suspicion." He added:

"Freedom of the press, for example depends in large degree on whether or not the courts give

Life Term One Making Escape

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24.—(P)—Search continued today for three convicts—one sentenced to a life term on a charge of murder 21 years ago—who walked away from the state prison saw mills, 15 miles west of here, last night.

Convicts working at the saw mills are considered trustees and a heavy guard usually is not posted.

The life termer was Ora Lewis, 43, Kansas City, charged with slaying a policeman in St. Louis. He was received at the prison April 11, 1918.

The other two were Ted Larue, 38, sentenced to 15 years on a robbery charge from Jackson County, and Christ Herdibru, 29, St. Louis, serving five years on a robbery charge.

The highway patrol said no trace of the men had been found.

Report Is Made To Judge Late In Afternoon

"Many people have voluntarily appeared before the grand jury in addition to those who were subpoenaed, in our investigations as to different violations of law. Each complaint was thoroughly investigated by this jury and sufficient evidence was not produced or discovered to warrant the returning of any indictments as to those complaints."

The above was the closing paragraph of the report of the grand jury, which convened April 3, and met 14 days, or at least during the interim.

Sixty-seven witnesses who reported to the circuit clerk as witnesses in the grand jury room received their $1.50 fee. There were many others who did not claim a fee.

The report was signed by all 12 of the jurors: William R. Courtney, foreman; B. B. Bettis, T. A. Hurley, Higgins Warren, George Hood, Lester Skillman, Robert Bealor, Robert Rissler, James G. Connor, Walter May, J. O. Latimer, Ernest W. Dugan.

Defends Charge Of Killing Wife

CANON CITY, Colo., April 24.—(P)—Dr. Raymond L. Atterberry testified to a district court today on his romance and married life with the woman the state accuses him of strangling to death last December 21.

In a calm voice the 40-year-old osteopathic physician declared:

"I loved Lona and she loved me."

"There was never any discord between us, other than minor quarrels such as any couple might have."

Dr. Atterberry testified after District Judge James L. Cooper overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

On December 21, the day of Mrs. Atterberry's death, the doctor testified they enjoyed a pleasant dinner together at their home. He took his wife to an apartment house and left her.

At 9:20 p. m., Mrs. Atterberry telephoned him at his office asking him to take her home. He stopped at the apartment for her, visiting there three or four minutes.

He drove up to the rear of their home at 9:30 p. m. As Mrs. Atterberry left she said:

"I'll soon be back. I'll see you a little later."

Dr. Atterberry said these were the last words he heard his wife speak."

Arranging Deal To Barter Cotton

LONDON, April 24.—(P)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy was reported authoritatively today to be arranging a deal whereby the United States would barter about 10,000,000 bales of cotton and more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to Britain for a supply of rubber and tin.

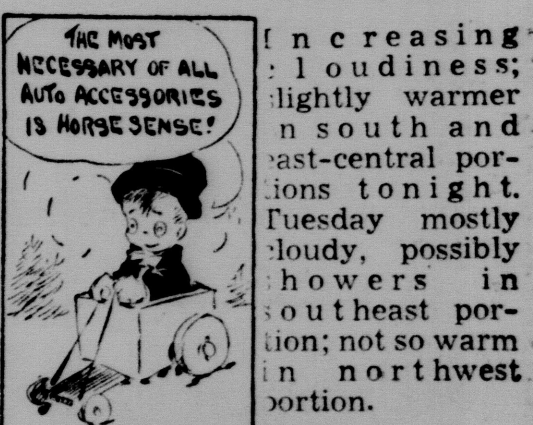

The deal, it was reported, would be made under the barter exchange proposal made two weeks ago by United States Senator Jas. F. Byrnes.

Homicide And Suicide Verdict

FLAT RIVER, Mo., April 24.—(P)—A verdict of homicide and suicide was returned in the deaths of Benjamin I. Henson, 44-year-old lead miner, and his wife, Carrie, 43, Coroner Joe Diemer said today.

Coroner Diemer said Henson shot and killed his wife with a shotgun, then turned the weapon on himself during a family quarrel. The couple's two daughters, Mixine, 21 and Jane, 12, found them dead when they returned home from Sunday school.

Slowly We're Getting Up Steam

Given a bare breathing-space between European crises, American business seems in a fair way to get on its feet.

Reports for the first quarter show definitely that money is being made, business volume is better than in 1938.

Here are a flock of first-quarter business reports noted more or less at random from the pages of financial journals and corporation reports:

Retail sales of new cars and trucks in the first 10 days of April are 46 per cent ahead of the same period of 1938 . . . the first quarter is 58 per cent ahead . . . A big tractor company reports $100,000 more profit for the first quarter of 1939 than in 1938 . . . A nation-wide building-supply house made $125,000 in the first quarter against a loss of a quarter-million in 1938 . . . the first four railroads to report indicate a big improvement in traffic in March as compared to January and February . . . the auto tire companies unanimously report more sales than last year, and one big one which took a whacking loss in 1938 is out of the red for the first quarter of 1939 . . . the biggest electrical equipment firm reports orders 5 per cent over 1938, and made correspondingly more money . . . Air line travel is 25 per cent above that of 1938's first quarter.

In fact, the aggregate profits of the first 66 industrial companies reporting for the first quarter of 1939 show combined net income of $41,799,456 as compared with $29,944,931 in 1938, an advance of almost 40 per cent.

The motor industry led the way up out of the depression of 1933; today it leads again, and waits only for followers. American Telephone, for instance, has said it will spend $320,000,000 on new plant. The Class I railroads have this year put in service almost 1,000 more new freight cars than last year.

Gradually the thought is dawning in the United States: the European crisis is a chronic crisis. You might almost say that Europe is now governed by crises.

The whole world can't simply sit back and hold its breath just because Europe is having a crisis. Life has to go on, and business has to go on, crisis or no crisis.

American business is, we believe, gradually realizing this, and is preparing to dig in and scratch once again.

Nobody any longer expects a phenomenal boom this year. But every sign now points to a gradual up-grade that will mark substantial progress beyond the late but not lamented 1938.

Sea serpent stories are cropping up again—this time in Oregon. We thought that vintage had been entirely consumed several years ago.

Brazil will not tolerate foreign countries seeking extra-territorial privileges. In other words, the dictators will find Brazil as hard to crack as the nut of the same name.

Several cartoonists were among the leaders in a list of high-priced newspaper workers. Learn to draw and you may draw a salary.

Movie stars must be having a tough time with this wave of patriotic pictures. It's hard to find a lead who knows all the words of "The Star Spangled Banner."

A Quiet Spectator

On Kill Devil Hill on the seacoast dunes of North Carolina, is a monument. It commemorates the first flight of a power-driven flying machine carrying a man.

Little groups of people visit the historic spot, and hear a guide tell the story of how the Wright brothers became the first men to fly.

The other day such a group visited the spot. One of the spectators was a quiet, unobtrusive man who looked on with interest but said nothing.

He was Orville Wright. Drawn irresistibly back to the scene of his triumph, Wright nevertheless preferred to remain unnoticed.

Orville Wright doesn't talk much these days. But we'll bet he thinks a lot of what mankind has done with the invention presented to it by the quiet Wrights.

It is not Orville Wright's fault that man has been able to do no better with this priceless gift than to make an agency for the efficient butchering of innocent women and children.

Controlling the Waters

Because there are not at the moment under way many spectacular river dams which catch the public imagination as did Norris or Boulder dams, you don't hear much about river control.

But the long battle to make the unruly waters serve man instead of threatening him is still going on. In 1938, federal appropriations of $386,500,000 were made on 63 authorized projects, and as many as 459 projects are in the survey stage or farther advanced.

This summary by the American Public Works Association shows that the flood control and water conservation problem is being consistently followed through. This program is not confined to the big spectacular projects, but is a continuing battle which will go on until the river systems of the country are harnessed for maximum service to the people and minimum danger.

Beyond party, this program is one to which the American people has been long committed, and one which they will carry through to completion.

A combination lip rouge and cheek rouge has been devised. This will be one of the first times lipstick has appeared on a female's cheek, but not on a male's.

Mussolini must think its Thanksgiving. He's reported enviously eying Turkey and Greece.

So They Say

The actual formation of a new government is merely a matter of a telegram to Czechoslovakian collaborators in Washington, London, Paris and Moscow.—Bohus Benes, nephew of former Czechoslovak president.

Most of our legislators seem to feel that it is cheaper to keep men behind prison bars than to release them under adequate supervision to try to earn an honest and decent living.—Chief of Police William J. Quinn of San Francisco.

The consumer has the right to expect that his cheese rind shall not be impregnated with noisome matter.—Federal Judge Ernest A. O'Brien of Detroit, in upholding federal confiscation of cheese.

We need a president who will not take orders from either British financial imperialism or the Vatican, even when they coincide.—Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of People's Lobby, before House neutrality hearing.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

Electric car No. 25, in charge of Motor-man Allen and Conductor Higgins, went out of control before it reached the terminus on East Fifth street, last night, and with great speed ran nearly half way across Engineer street before it was stopped.

G. C. McLaughlin painted the picture that hung over the altar in the First M. E. church last night when Rev. J. S. Bitler delivered a special sermon for Sedalia's returned soldiers.

Mrs. Frank Ross was chairman of the program on newspapers presented at the Sorosis meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. P. McCluney.

They say that Clyde Patterson has been at work on a chicken pen for six weeks, but hopes to finish it before the baseball season in the Western league closes.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Frank Murphy may not know it, but he stands ready to lose four of his best aides. They are:

1. Brian McMahon, hard-hitting Assistant Attorney General in charge of criminal prosecution.
2. Thurman Arnold, Assistant Attorney General whose trust-busting has caused so much anguish to big business.

3. Gordon Dean, in charge of press relations and also one of the best lawyers in the Justice Department.

4. Solicitor General Bob Jackson, whose departure after this Supreme Court term already has been forecast in this column.

All of these are men who had helped make the Justice Department, rather belatedly, one of the strongest in the Administration. Their prospective departure is due to various causes, among them the fact that many things have bogged down under Murphy.

It is difficult to get decisions out of the chief. Cases pile up on the Attorney General's desk and don't move. He is out horse-back riding or investigating judges. It is even difficult for his aides to see Murphy.

Word that Thurman Arnold may resign has been received with unmitigated joy by big business. His actual departure is not definite, and depends upon whether he gets continued support for his present program.

Brian McMahon and Gordon Dean will definitely retire and set up a law firm together. Bob Jackson will go back to his home in Jamestown, N. Y., unless Roosevelt has bigger things in store for him.

Germany vs. Poland
Count Jerzy Potocki, vivacious Ambassador of Poland, gives some of the most charming dinner parties in Washington. All the appointments are in good taste, from wine glasses to finger bowls. Especially attractive are the Embassy dinner plates, decorated with the great eagle crest of the Polish Government.

Guests at a recent dinner were Dr. Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires of the German Embassy, and Frau Thomsen; also the representative of Germany's axis partner, Giuseppe Cosmelli, counselor of the Italian Embassy, and Signora Cosmelli.

During the dinner, Frau Thomsen expressed genuine admiration for the Embassy dinner plates bearing the crest of Poland.

"Never mind," smiled Signor Cosmelli of the Italian Embassy, "they'll be yours soon."

Social Call

For a "social call," as it was announced, Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago did a lot of political talking during his visit with the President.

Kelly told Roosevelt he was the Democrats' best bet in 1940, and that he should run again, anti-third term tradition or no. None of the other prominently mentioned candidates, Kelly declared, could carry the party to victory.

"The country still is strong for you, Mr. President," Kelly argued. "The people believe in you and they will vote for you. Further, you are the only man who can solidify Democratic strength. None of the others can. If any other man is nominated there will be big splits of support and that will be the end. You are the only one who can win and you've got to run again."

Roosevelt listened to the newly re-elected Midwest boss with keen interest, but made no comment.

Others, coming without credentials, saw the ground floor and the east room . . . Phil Pearl, bulky AFL publicity agent, is one of the most extensive newspaper readers in the Capital. If he finds a story he considers unfriendly to the AFL, he writes the editor a letter lodging a complaint against the reporter.

Reorganization Jitters
Government brass hats were in a high state of jitters all last week, but it wasn't for fear of war in Europe. What had the boys talking to themselves was government reorganization.

Word leaked out that the President was working on a drastic reshuffling of bureaus and commissions under the recently enacted law, and that his program would be contained in three executive orders sent to Congress this week for its approval. The reorganization act requires that all changes must be submitted to Congress at least 60 days before adjournment.

Most agitated was RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, because of an inside report that his agency would be put in the Commerce Department under Harry Hopkins. Jesse burned up the wires telephoning pals on Capitol Hill urging them to put the heat on Roosevelt. Friends of Jesse even hinted that if he was subordinated, he would quit.

The President took no chances in getting a favorable start for his reorganizing plans. He called in Senator James Byrnes and Representative Lindsay Warren, the brainy Carolinians who put through the legislation, and asked their advice on how to proceed. They counseled that his first order should have a strong economy complexion, that he disregard backstage wire-pulling and do some hardhauled overhauling.

Wallace vs. Smith

Though Henry Wallace and Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith are supposed to be mortal enemies, they shake their fists at each other only for the pictures.

Once the two met at the Capitol, and cameramen asked them to pose. "We put on a pantomime," says Wallace, "and shook our fingers at one another, and then our fists. The cameramen wanted action, and we tried to oblige."

Not—While the secretary of Agriculture and the South Carolina Senator disagree on farm policy, they enjoy telling stories together.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday April 30, 1939.

Golden Text: Genesis 18:25. "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?"

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Woe unto them! for they have fled from me; destruction unto them! because they have transgressed against me; though I have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lies against me. Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him" (Hosea 7:13; 8:3).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The design of Love is to reform the sinner. If the sinner's punishment here has been insufficient to reform him, the good man's heaven would be a hell to the sinner. Escape from punishment is not in accordance with God's government, since justice is the handmaid of mercy" (p. 35).

SERIAL STORY

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, the officers and Betty Mary were in the darkness. Watching from her spot of shelter behind the rock, Betty saw that Hope may be killed. She raises her pistol, Area.

CHAPTER VIII

BETTY MARY JORDAN had learned to shoot when she was a teen-age girl, at the same time when she was learning to ride a horse. She had thought it grand relief from piano lessons then, but she had never foreseen any practical application of the principle whereby a person can shoot accurately without taking aim. But, in the emergency now, she knew involuntarily what to do.

Betty Mary saw the alien about to kill Hope Kildare from behind. She did not scream nor faint nor even try to find the sights of her pistol. She simply unholstered it, lifted it and fired, all in one precise motion. She was close enough, and cool enough, that the bullet quite definitely broke the alien's leg.

"For God's sake lie down, Betty Mary!"

It was Hope himself who shouted that. He had known the boulder behind which she was concealed and so knew it must be she when her gun flashed in the darkness. He knocked out the man with whom he was fighting—first wrestling an empty gun from his hand—and saw the other alien fall. Then he plunged recklessly down the hill to her, bounding over stones.

"What in the world are you doing?" he demanded, pushing her to a crouching position with him. "Didn't we tell you to lay low? But you shot that alien! You got him—by gosh you did, Betty Mary!"

"He was about to club you with his rifle," she stated quite simply. "From the rear."

"He was? Say—that's—why say!"

He gripped both of her shoulders, almost hurting her with his strength.

"And you were fighting with the other man," she added. "You would have been killed. There wasn't time to warn you."

"My glory, Betty Mary!" Hope almost whispered that. "I'll have to—you saved my life! You—"

He was breathing fast from exertion and was touched now by emotion, too.

"The shooting has ceased," she said. "Where is Mr. Starr?"

His hands left her shoulders then and he stood up. "Glori, I've got work to do! SHERRY! YOU OKAY?"

"Esta bueno!" Sheridan yelled back, still speaking Spanish. "I've got four coming."

The young officers never quite knew whether any of the aliens escaped or not, but they didn't think so. Darkness and rocks impeded them so that they had a long hour of work there, even after the final surrender.

Of 12 prisoners taken, three were badly wounded and had to be given first aid in the dim glow of flashlights. Betty Mary tore a silken petticoat into strips for bandages. One of the men realized he was going, and so pleaded with Betty Mary, in Spanish, to send his avowal of love back to his family near Culiacan.

"I wanted," said he, brokenly, "to come here . . . where is free . . . where is happiness for every one . . . this America . . . is good to die here, if I must die!"

Sheridan Starr was trying to stop a flow of blood from the man's side. He paused to look at Betty Mary, their faces very near, strained. And in that moment, too, she heard not the dying man, but the strong-muscled American officer sobbing, the big man who could fight furiously for order and law.

"This is—always—the payoff—Betty Mary!" Sheridan sobbed it, unashamed. "My God, we have to do it! But—I can't—blame the poor devils. They have so little at home. The United States is— heaven—to them!"

She was holding the Mexican's hand now, and stroking his brow ever so tenderly, trying desperately to control her own crying. He was a man of perhaps 30 years. The cut of his features, and the cleanliness of him despite his poor clothes, suggested gentility.

"He doesn't look criminal," Betty Mary whispered in English.

"About half of them are not," Sheridan declared. "They are—just folks—wanting freedom and happiness, and a chance in life, that they can't get where they were born."

There were no more words and Sheridan went to help another wounded man. Perhaps 10 minutes later the first wounded man was dead.

"BETTY MARY!" Hope Kildare began, ever so seriously, "I can try to say my thanks now, I suppose. For saving my life."

The two were on horseback now, riding guard behind the Society and Clubs

The "Elijah," an Oratorio by Felix Mendelssohn, was presented, under the auspices of the Helen G. Steele Music club, by five soloists from the music faculty of Stephens college, Columbia, and thirty-five Sedalia musicians to an overflowing and attentive audience Sunday night at the First Methodist church.

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life president of the music club, made the presentation of the Oratorio, and expressed her appreciation of the cooperation of all those participating.

Mrs. C. A. Greene in an interesting and thorough manner told of the history of the development of the Oratorio form of music, emphasizing the difference between it and opera. Oratorio is sacred music set to a dramatic text and presented without action, setting and costumes.

The theme of "Elijah" is the triumph of "Truth Over Falsehood." In closing Mrs. Greene said "the purpose of the Oratorio is neither to minister to our senses nor to afford entertainment, but to elevate our souls... and to strengthen our faith and devotion toward God."

Mrs. Roswell Beach, director of the Oratorio, deserves high commendation for her training of the large chorus of voices and for her facility in conducting the extensive and beautifully sung program. The accompaniments of the principal chorus played by Miss Alberta Roach and Miss Lillian Fox at two pianos were an outstanding accomplishment.

Mr. Arthur Todd, baritone, sang the title role with strength and splendid interpretation. The story of the suffering, temptation and triumph of Elijah were vividly pictured in the arias and recitatives sung by Mr. Todd, who carried the major portion of the solo work.

The part of The Widow, taken by Miss Winifred Julrud, soprano, displayed the volume and artistry of a well-trained voice. Miss Elizabeth Recht, also, sang with quality and careful modulation the role of The Angel.

Mr. Karl Bratton, lyric tenor soloist, as Obadiah, gave a fine representation of the Biblical character in a clear and pleasing voice. The sympathetic accompaniments of Miss Marjorie Orton, solo accompanist, and her offertory solo added much to the perfection of the performance.

The precision, interpretation and soft quality of the principal chorus provided an effective background for the soloists, and the selection of the antiphonal choir from the Calvary Episcopal church, sung from the balcony, gave a touch of the celestial.

Rev. Quincy R. Wright, pastor of the First Methodist church, said at the invocation, Rev. R. A. Waggoner, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, gave the offertory prayer, and Rev. A. W. Kokendoffer, pastor of the First Christian church, offered the benediction.

Ushers were Mrs. M. P. Shy, Mrs. Glen Warren, Miss Geraldine Teufel, Mrs. F. O. Withers, and Mrs. G. D. Anderson of the Helen G. Steele Music club and Mrs. C. E. Wyrick and Miss Margaret Ferguson of the Stephens college club of Sedalia.

Members of the Stephens College club of Sedalia, were hostesses at a "coffee" following the presentation of "Elijah." Sunday night, honoring the guest artists, Miss Winifred Julrud, Miss Elizabeth Recht, Miss Marjorie Orton, Mr. Arthur Todd and Mr. Karl Bratton, of the faculty of the music conservatory at Stephens college, Columbia.

The "coffee" was given in the parlors of the First Methodist church. Mrs. E. F. Yancey, president of the Helen G. Steele Music club, and Mrs. Paul Shackelford, president of the College club, poured.

Ivory tapers in twin crystal candle-holders were arranged on either side of a large crystal bowl of vari-colored spring flowers, forming the center-piece of the lace-covered table. This service was of silver.

A special guest was Mr. Ernest L. Cox, head of the voice department of Stephens college, who accompanied the soloists to Sedalia, and arranged for their appearance here.

Miss Dorothy Suter of the Stephens College club was in charge of the "coffee," and her committee members were Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mrs. George F. Chambers and Mrs. C. E. Van Horn. Mrs. Sid Condict was in charge of the ushers for the Oratorio from the club.

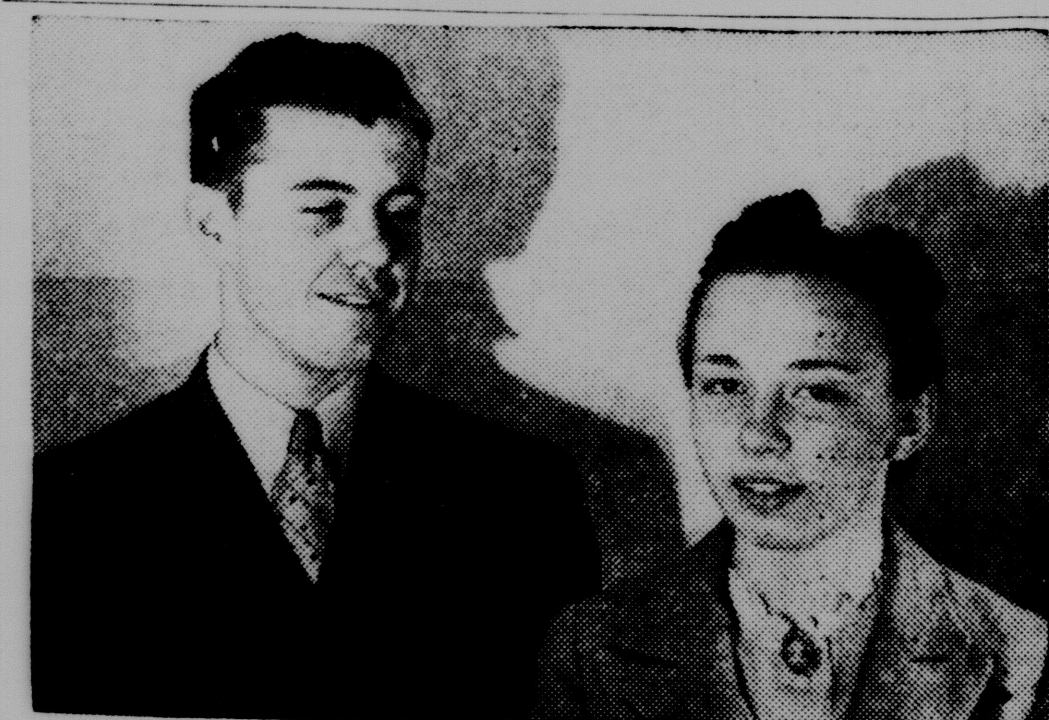

Church Events

The meeting of the Earnest Endeavor class of the Epworth M. E. church which was announced for Thursday evening, will be on Tuesday evening, April 25, instead. It will be at Clark's cabin.

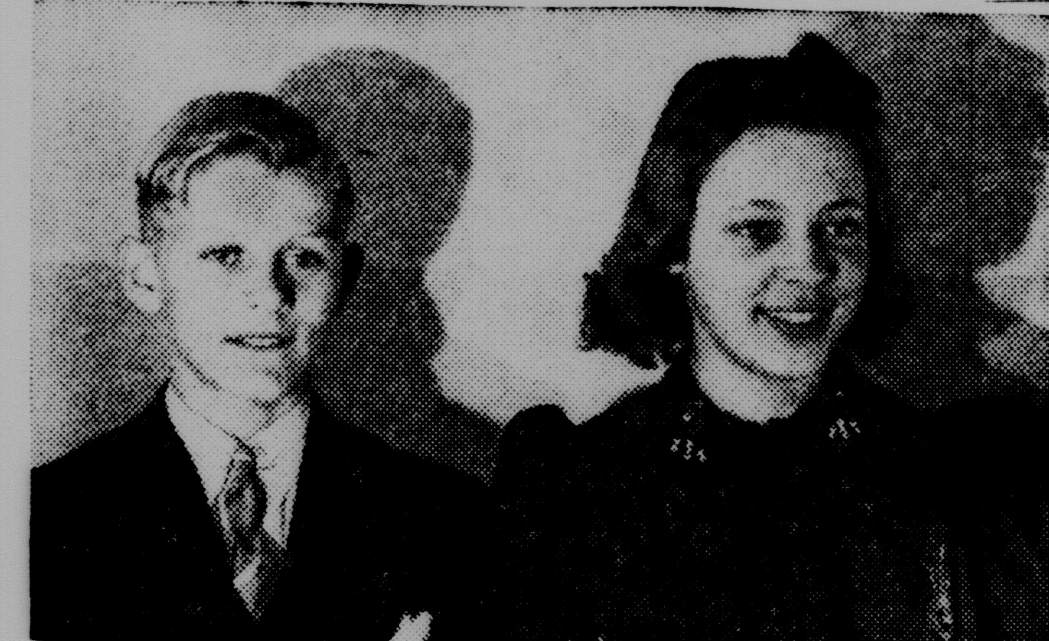

Mrs. Otis Moore of Iowa, will be in Sedalia Sunday, April 30, to give the address for the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society at the First Methodist church. Mrs. Moore spent last year in India and was one of 80 women delegates to the World Christian Conference which was held in Madras, India, this past December.

Speaking of the world Christian conference, Mrs. Moore said recently "The supreme value of the conference was not in what was said, but what it was. For seventeen days people from the ends of the earth lived together, thought together, worshipped together. Over their soup, or fish, Burma talked with Turkestan, Kenya with Brazil, Iran with the Netherlands. Down the long walk from hall to hall came India and Scotland, Japan and Java, China and Peru. Day by day Nanjing enlightened Bangalore, Rhodesia shared experiences with Siam. As they bowed in worship morning by morning before the God Father of us all, as they partook together of the symbols of the passion of our Lord, as they joined in meditation on Christmas eve and they had Christmas singing sang as they had never sung before the one church of God in all lands, united to do His bidding in a torn and suffering world. That one church—a great multitude which no man can number of all nations and kindreds and tongues. That was

Merchants Take Game From Ionia

Middleton Gave Six Hits While Team Mates Collect 23

If exhibition game results mean anything then the Sedalia Merchants are well on the road of having a real ball club for the 1939 season. Sunday the Merchants put the "tame" to Knoops Ionia by a 29 to 6 victory at Cole Camp.

Overfelt, Barnes and Zey put plenty of wood on the ball to send the sphere out for home runs, Zey's with the bases loaded. The former Athletic left and right fielder also collected two triples one of which was when the bases were filled. Livengood came in for some glory with a triple.

The Merchants became a little careless after the game had gotten well underway and Middleton pitching for the local club was touched for 6 hits and six runs. Middleton went the entire route and looked mighty good to the Sedalia manager, Vincent Siegel. "Red" Knoop who has been boasting of his compressed air ball, had the compression removed by the Sedalians who touched him for twenty-three hits. Knoop's backing was somewhat weak for the opening of the season in an exhibition game.

The following Sedalia players saw action Sunday: Walker 2b; McMachian 2b; Taylor ss; Becker ss; Clayton rf; Carver rf; Zey lf; Barnes cf; Brownfield cf; Summers c; Simmons c; Overfelt 3b; Livengood 1b; Middleton p. Ionia players were: Kelb 2b; B. Ragar rf; Knoop p; G. Wood 1b; White ss; L. Lademann 3b; Barenberg lf; V. Ragar cf.

The score: R. H. E. Sedalia 29 23 4 Ionia 6 6 6

Next Sunday the Merchants will go to Osceola where they play the second exhibition game of the season. At this time Neice, who pitched for Proctor and Gamble last season, and Gene Horner will take turns on the mound. Horner is returning from Louisiana where he practiced this spring.

Mel Moehle, last year center-fielder for the Columbia Merchants, will join the Sedalia club and will probably remain the rest of the season.

Golden Eagle Wins In Race

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—The "Prestige" of Mississippi steamboat racing, established by the Robert E. Lee's 1970 victory rested today with another Mississippi packet.

The stern-wheeler Golden Eagle, last regular packet on a river that once knew many famous races, defeated two California boats in a race against time.

Absent, however, were the thrills of seeing the victorious steamboat come puffing 'round the bend well ahead of its rivals, as when the Robert E. Lee beat the Natchez.

The Golden Eagle was timed for the 128-mile downstream run between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo., while its competitors, the Delta King and the Delta Queen, raced on two California rivers. The winner was determined by the best average speed made on the three trips.

Leaving St. Louis at 6:04 p. m. Saturday, the Golden Eagle crossed the finish line at Cape Girardeau at 3:14 a. m. Sunday, completing the run in nine hours and 10 minutes, with an average speed of 13.8 miles an hour.

The Delta King took eight hours and 28 minutes for a 90-mile trip down the San Joaquin river from Stockton, Calif., to San Francisco, for an 11.54 miles an hour average. Its sister ship, The Delta Queen, steamed a 110-mile course down the Sacramento river from Sacramento to San Francisco in nine hours and 39 minutes, averaging 11.4 miles an hour. Both boats had completed their trips Saturday.

The Californians conceded defeat in a telegram to Capt Henry W. Leyhe, owner of the Golden Eagle, and said a pennant bearing a brace of deer horns, symbolical of victory in a steamboat race, was being forwarded.

Burns' Motto Is 'Show Me' In New Film

"I'm From Missouri!"
This traditional American motto of the man who wants things proved to him refers to Bob Burns, king of the homespun humorists, in his latest picture, "I'm From Missouri," which Paramount will present locally tomorrow at the Liberty Theatre.

What Burns wants proved to him in this new, down-to-earth comedy is that mules are inferior to machinery when it comes to equipping an army. And to show that he's a Missourian in spirit as well as in fact, Bob goes all the way to London, where the heads of the British army, unable to prove their point, accept his!

"I'm From Missouri" shows Burns for the first time since "The Arkansas Traveler," which picture marked his change from light musical comedy roles to the portrayal of homespun American characters. The new picture continues the trend, casting Bob as an ardent mule fancier, a family man and Missouri's "unofficial ambassador" to England.

Burns and his new screen wife, Gladys George, leave Missouri for London when word comes out that England is preparing to motorize the mule units of the army in accordance with the advice of Burns' rival, Gene Lockhart, a machinery manufacturer. Burns goes abroad to save

Rowe Stages Comeback In Sunday Win

Paul Dean With The Cardinals Gets A Rebuff

Hold that Tiger, boys. School-boy Rowe is back to stay.

His four-hit shutout of the Cleveland Indians yesterday, as noble a comeback bid at sport has been in many a year, didn't cause the New York Yankees to lose sleep last night, but it raised the Detroit Tigers into consideration for a spot better than their fourth place of last year.

The big Texas right-hander, who pitched Detroit to an American league pennant in 1934 and helped less spectacularly in their 1935 repeat, showed no trace of an arm ailment in his first appearance this season. He yielded four scattered hits, struck out four and walked only one man.

After Rowe's arm went dead in the spring of 1937, and he traveled up and down the country ferreting out any doctor, bone-setter, rubber or what-not anyone ever heard of.

He failed to come back last spring in four games with the Tigers, but had a moderately good year with their Beaumont farm in the Texas league. Now he looks like the hero of old. Incidentally he contributed a triple and a single towards his team's 8-0 rout of the Indians.

In contrast to Rowe's return was the rebuff received by Paul Dean, who also sought to come back yesterday for the St. Louis Cardinals after having lost his pitching feel in 1937 and spent most of last season in the Texas league.

Dean was belted out in the fourth inning by the Chicago Cubs and charged with the 6-5 loss. He worked three scoreless innings on one hit before the Cubs crashed through with five hits and four runs in the fourth.

In the other National League games Harry Gumbert permitted only one hit for six innings as the New York Giants subdued the Boston Bees, 4-2; the Cincinnati Reds took their second straight from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-2, behind the six-hit pitching of Bucky Walters, and the Philadelphia Phillies took a hair-raising extra inning game from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Little Heinie Mueller won it, 5-4, by doubling with the bases loaded in the 12th.

The New York Yankees knocked Southpaw Ken Chase of the Washington Senators out of the box in the fourth and went on to win 7-4. This victory and Cleveland's defeat returned the Yanks to the top of the American league.

The Chicago White Sox amassed 19 hits, including four doubles by Marv Owen which tied a major league record, to wallopp the St. Louis Browns, 17-4, and the Philadelphia Athletics reared up with a six-run flurry in the eighth inning to decide a weird contest against the Boston Red Sox, 12-8.

his business and that of his friends. Miss George, on the other hand, goes to crash British society.

While the "man from Missouri" is busy challenging British army officials to show him why machinery is superior to mules, the "woman from Missouri" defies society to exclude anybody as ambitious and determined as she is. Although Burns' husbandlike devotion to his mule and his scorn for "society foolishness" almost cause a rift, he fixes things up with a couple of clever Yankee tricks and brings both Miss George's social campaign and his own mule expedition to a successful conclusion.

British Ambassador Returns To Berlin

against 944,398,000 for the past year.

Sir John was expected to announce increases in "luxury taxes" and may even boost the already steep income tax to get increased revenue. The income tax is now 5 shillings, six-pence ($1.37) in the pound, or 27½ per cent.

Taxes on tobacco, tea, sugar and gasoline and a levy on cosmetics have been suggested as possible fields for new revenue.

The cost of the army, navy and air force plus the cost of civil defense is estimated by the government at a total of approximately 580,000,000 pounds. Of this 350,000,000 pounds will be met by borrowing.

Might Have Proposals
BERLIN, April 24.—(P)—The return to Berlin of British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson was followed today by official disclosure that the German ambassador to London, Herbert von Dirksen, would go back to his post "very soon."

Von Dirksen had been recalled to Berlin soon after Sir Neville was summoned to London to report on the German occupation of Bohemia and Moravia in the breakup of Czechoslovakia last month.

In spite of the suddenness of Sir Neville's return, the British embassy said no arrangements had been made for him to call at Wilhelmstrasse and that he was carrying no special message.

Nevertheless, his reappearance in Berlin was deemed by the average German to constitute triumph for German diplomacy.

There was little doubt in the minds of men who follow the political game that Sir Neville would urge moderation in Chancellor Hitler's reply to President Roosevelt before the reichstag next Friday.

It was further taken for granted that he would explain to Berlin authorities that Britain has no desire to "encircle" Germany—the purpose Nazis have attributed to the British system of guarantees.

Foreign office circles indicated that von Dirksen would be charged with impressing upon the British government that Germany has no desire to unloose a conflict that might lead to a general war.

A foreign office spokesman hinted that before Hitler's Friday address the British ambassador would have an opportunity to acquaint German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop with the British government's latest views.

The suddenness of Sir Neville's return and the fact that Hitler has remained in Berlin—instead of going to his Bavarian mountain home—was taken to indicate Sir Neville had some concrete proposals to make.

Foreign office circles are convinced he came too late to prevent Yugoslavia from joining the Rome-Berlin axis even to the extent of signing the anti-Communist pact during a visit of Yugoslav Foreign Minister Alexander Cincina-Markovich to Berlin.

Chief Dies Of Bullet Wound
JOPLIN, Mo., April 24.—(P)—John T. Moyer, 65, Baxter Springs, Kas., police chief and veteran Cherokee County peace officer, who was shot at Baxter Springs Friday morning by a fugitive from the Kansas insane asylum at Osawatomie, died this morning in a hospital here.

Sam Parks, 36, Baxter Springs rooming house operator, also shot by the fugitive, Charles Kinzie, 50, died in the hospital Saturday afternoon of a bullet wound in the abdomen.

County Attorney Joe Henbest of Columbus planned to file first-degree murder charges this afternoon against Kinzie, who is being held in the county jail at Columbus.

Mrs. McLaughlin Recovering
Mrs. Harry McLaughlin, of Kansas City, a sister of Mrs. Mary Ott, of this city, underwent an operation for appendicitis at a Kansas City hospital, and is getting along nicely, according to word from her niece, Mrs. Paul Kirner, of Sedalia, who is with her.

Home From The South
Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hamilton, 1415 West Fourth street, have returned from a ten days' trip south. In New Orleans, La., they were guests of friends, and stopped for short visits in Memphis, Tenn., Mobile, Ala., and other southern cities.

Birth of a Son
Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Ferguson, of Dresden, are parents of a nine and a half pound son, born at their home this (Monday) morning, April 24. The name of Larry Kenneth has been given the new arrival. The mother was formerly Miss Hazel Edwards, of Sedalia.

Sedalia's Regional Meet Of Girl Scouts
Mrs. Landon Welch, accompanied by Mrs. John Gledhill left today for Wichita, Kas., where Mrs. Welch will attend the eighth regional conference of the Girl Scouts Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and where Mrs. Gledhill will visit her daughter, Mrs. Jack Howard and Mr. Howard.

Other delegates from Sedalia to the Girl Scouts meeting will leave Thursday are Mrs. Elmer Headlee, Mrs. Ernest Liebel, Mrs. Louis Alley and Miss Ruth Ann Slane.

national promotion director said that he had attended the state convention here six years ago, and four years ago was in St. Louis. He remarked on the splendid progress during the past six years. This progress, he said, is due to the fundamental principles upon which the organization is founded. We evaluate a man, he said, by his many qualities, and an institute is judged by the same standards. This organization has two main factors, one is protection, the other to raise the social standards of individuals and communities. We possess qualities of freedom, he continued, because our forefathers fought for them, and provided protection which we enjoy today.

The W. O. W., he said has $400,000,000 in life protection in force, and has already paid out enough, that if it was invested in small $5000 farms it would extend from New York to San Francisco to New Orleans, and back to New York again. The reserve is $128,000,000 he said, the strongest fraternal insurance society in the world.

The W. O. W. has done much to raise the standards of both the individuals and community, he said and he gave several specific examples where it had been done.

Mr. Miller spoke of the W. O. W. hospital at San Antonio where members, suffering with tuberculosis, may spend as many as 20 months receiving treatment free of charge.

Mr. Miller also referred to the membership campaign which began March 1 and will conclude April 30. It is in recognition of the fortieth anniversary of the national president, also the president's recognition of the fine work of the field men.

The speaker commended Past State Manager Claude Manlove for his good work and Dr. Neill, of Clinton, for assistance given in combatting adverse legislation.

A telegram was read to the convention from National President D. E. Bradshaw, expressing regret he could not be present.

National Report
National Director William Ruess of Omaha, gave his report, stating that world conditions, economic situations, lack of employment, and loss of faith by workers and industry have produced a greater desire for benefits payable to loved ones in the event of the member's death, but the same things have also produced a less amount of money with which to pay same.

"Our government," he said, "is not operated in all respects in the manner which we would suggest, nor has everything that has been done met with our approval. But, it is the greatest government in the world. It has given you and me the right to think the thoughts that are here expressed. It is the government which believes and guarantees unto us the right of a free press and a free speech."

It is not necessary for us, when speaking to a neighbor and friend to be wondering if we are speaking to one who shall report us and cause us to be interned in some concentration camp, or to speak with hand to the face in a whisper for fear that the word which we might utter would be heard. But here, in this great country of the United States we have the right, each one of us, to mount the rostrum, or stand on the street corner, and speak whatever is in our minds and to advance whatever plan we think is best for us individually or for the cold and powerful hand on us and withdrawing us from circulation."

Afternoon Session
Speakers on this afternoon's program are: Father W. J. McGrane, Sedalia; Judge Ray B. Lucas, superintendent Insurance Department Jefferson City; Paul J. Leyhe, Kansas City, Dr. A. D. Cloyd, of Omaha and L. T. Neill, Clinton.

Tuesday Closing Session
Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and Horace I. Rosenblum, editor of the W. O. W. magazine, will be the speakers on Tuesday's program. Officers will be elected and other business transacted.

Head Officers
Head Camp Officers, participating in the convention are: Past Head Council—A. L. Pratt, Linneus.

Farley, meanwhile, are putting their heads together frequently. The two had lunch with a group of friends and went to the opening baseball game together last Friday. They will pick up their conversation this week where they dropped it at the baseball park.

What lies back of those long talks is likely to provide material for political guessers for some time. Both Garner and Farley are well schooled in the art of saying nothing in public, although given to straight talking and over-the-board dealing in private. Yet, both are adept at negotiation.

Certain obvious facts mark off the boundaries of their conversations: It is 14 months until the Democratic national convention at which a presidential candidate will be named. Farley as well as Garner has received mention as a possible contender.

Garner has taken no apparent notice of the efforts by friends in his behalf and associates do not expect him to change that policy in the near future.

Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee and postmaster general for six years, has developed wide friendships as the chief patronage dispenser of the administration. He will have a prominent part in the 1940 convention.

Many politicians are questioning whether either of the men is thinking very seriously about running for the presidency for himself. But could be expected to appraise carefully all the odds against them before going after the nomination.

Furthermore, much might depend on President Roosevelt's attitude. Several senators predicted last week he might be drafting for renomination, especially if European conditions are critical next year.

French Strike At Propaganda

PARIS, April 24.—The French government, in one of two measures reported today for assuring French unity, outlawed three organizations in Alsace-Lorraine to undermine French nationalism.

Hermann Buckler, Prussian-born autonomy leader, was the head of one of the organizations. The other measure reported to have been decreed by the cabinet established heavy penalties for efforts "to provoke hate and discord among Frenchmen because of race or religion."

PARIS, April 24.—The French government struck today at German propaganda in Alsace-Lorraine by outlawing three organizations, including that of the Prussian-born autonomy leader, Hermann Bickler, for attempting to undermine French nationalism.

Sources close to the government said that the effort to smash autonomy organizations in an area along the vital Maginot line was but the forerunner of widespread measures to assure French unity during present international tension.

These quarters disclosed the government decreed dissolution of three propaganda units at last Friday's cabinet meeting but kept the move secret until today.

In addition to Gickler's youth organization, those outlawed were the Erwin von Steinbach Club and the Alsatin People's Intellectual and Cultural Union.

Meanwhile, France was said to have urged Great Britain hurriedly to adopt military conscription as the quickest way to obtain Soviet Russian support and to insure peace.

Informed French circles said Sir Robert G. Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British cabinet, took back to London such a suggestion from France for the British cabinet to consider.

Courts Free Of Politics, Urge From Murphy

it fearless protection and careful interpretation.

Like "Hallowed Place"
"It is a bitter but undeniable fact that our courts do not enjoy the unquestioned respect that they had a generation ago."

"I can remember when first, as an assistant United States attorney, I stepped into a federal court room. It was to me then a hallowed place—almost cathedral-like in its dignity—and to most Americans it was a hallowed place. Today that feeling of reverence has given way in some quarters to an attitude of cynicism and disrespect."

The underlying trouble, said Murphy, springs from inefficient administration and a tendency to let politics creep in.

"The first of these weaknesses, inefficiency, is painfully evident in the congested condition of court dockets and the almost complete absence of coordination in the work of the entire federal judicial system."

"And if you want a picture of the second failure—the tendency toward political involvement—you have only to read the story of the Harding-Coolidge era and the struggle of Chief Justice Taft for the appointment of better judges."

"A good judge does not want patronage; a bad one should not have it."

Murphy specifically said there unfortunately had developed "a general feeling that bankruptcy matters are a legitimate field for the payment of political debts."

While saying there was room for improvement, the attorney general declared that "the federal judiciary as a whole is an admirable organization and a very definite credit to American democracy." Mr. Roosevelt's appointments in the last few months he said, added to the courts judges of "rare learning and integrity."

Bill To Slow Up Continuances

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24.—(P)—A chorus of opposition from lawyer representatives developed today to a bill which would require prosecuting attorneys to submit written reasons before dismissing criminal cases or obtaining more than two continuances.

The measure, suggested by Judge Allen C. Southern's grand jury which indicted Jackson county Prosecutor W. W. Graves, was called up for perfection today by its author, Rep. Frank Lowry, (R) Cape Girardeau. The house recessed for lunch without voting on it.

Lowry called attention to the Gargotta case in Kansas City, continued by Graves 27 times and finally dismissed, and added:

"We couldn't have corrupt gangs of politicians in any county in the state if they didn't have control of the prosecutor's office."

Rep. W. O. Hanks (D) Joplin, replied "we should not pass a law which will cast a shadow across every prosecuting attorney in Missouri."

"Just because there is a little mismanagement of justice in Kansas City," added Rep. G. P. and Hays (R) Christian county, "no one should tell us to change our present law which is entirely satisfactory."

Reps. H. P. Lauf (D) Jefferson City and C. P. Tudley (D) Carter county, also spoke against the bill.

Rep. Lawrence Holman (D) Monett, defended it, asserting "I served as prosecutor two terms in Randolph county and I'm familiar with the office. This measure will hurt no honest prosecutor. It may give a little needed prodding to some honest ones."

Assembly To Get More Active

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24.—(P)—Missouri's lawmakers have begun watching the calendars—desk and wall varieties as well as legislative—and are wondering just how much they can accomplish before the "let's go home" urge brings sine die adjournment.

Only nine legislative days remain before expiration of the full year period—$5 daily for the first 120 days of this assembly—and there still is much to be done. With May 4 the salons go on at $1 a day and the sentiment to quit will grow stronger as June approaches.

Anxiety over the crowded legislative calendars was responsible for the morning house session today, first on a Monday since the assembly convened.

"We've got work to do," acting Floor Leader Morris Osborn (D), Shelby County, told representatives before the week-end adjournment. "We'll never get away from here if we don't start hitting the ball."

First spot of interest, of course, is Gov. Lloyd C. Stark's Kansas City police bill. Tomorrow night the house judiciary committee will hear final arguments for and against enactment of the measure to lift Kansas City's police force from home rule control.

Following action of the committee—observers believe it will be favorable—an interim of about two weeks is expected to elapse before the bill will be ready for serious consideration on the house floor. If passed, it must go through a similar course in the senate.

Not Invite In Federal Men

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24.—(P)—The house rejected today a resolution requesting its judiciary committee to invite federal judges Albert L. Reeves and Merrill E. Otis and U. S. District Attorney Maurice M. Milligan to testify tomorrow night on the Kansas City police bill.

The surprise resolution was tossed in by Rep. Tom Brown (R) of Harrison county, just after the house had convened after the week end for its first Monday morning meeting of the session.

Thirteen members voted for the measure, 27 against and 19 said "present."

Brown's resolution said the three federal officials by reason of their key positions in investigation of vice and crime in Kansas City were the "most competent obtainable" to discuss the Weakley police bill introduced at the behest of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

The judiciary committee is scheduled to hold its final hearing on the measure tomorrow. The proponents and opponents each have had one chance.

"Political charges have tended to cloud the issue before us to such an extent that we feel that we should, before the consideration of this matter, have before us some witnesses above reproach and who have no political interest in the Kansas City police bill and yet are thoroughly conversant with conditions surrounding the subject on which this issue is based," the resolution said.

"Judge Reeves and Judge Otis and U. S. District Attorney Milligan, who are uninterested in any political coercion or political expectancy, started and developed the investigation that gave opportunity for introduction of this issue before the legislature, which position of these eminent jurists makes them the most competent obtainable."

There was no record vote on Brown's measure, but several of the police bill's proponents voted against it.

Revelation Due Ire Over Vote

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—(P)—Anger over a lost vote, Mrs. Margaret C. Braun said, caused her to take letters bearing on the Missouri fire insurance compromise from a waste basket in the Washington home of Lambert O'Malley.

Mrs. Braun returned to Kansas City after a Washington municipal judge dismissed petit larceny charges filed against her by O'Malley, son of R. E. O'Malley, indicted with Tom Pendergast by a federal grand jury for alleged failure to pay income tax on money received in connection with the rate case compromise.

The letters were printed by the St. Louis Post Dispatch, April 14. Mrs. Braun took the letters, she said, "because they voted me in the Democratic primary last August for Billings when I meant to vote for Douglas."

Judge James M. Douglas, backed by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, defeated Judge James V. Billings, backed by the Pendergast organization, in a Democratic supreme court primary last August.

The letters taken by Mrs. Braun were written, she said, by Mrs. R. E. O'Malley to her son. They discussed the grand jury investigation of the insurance rate case.

Mrs. Braun said she submitted the letters first to a federal bureau of investigation agent but told they would not be admissible as evidence.

She said she obtained a position as housekeeper in the O'Malley home several months after she was told by a precinct official he vote already had been cast for Billings.

"I began watching and waiting," she said.

Mrs. Braun, operator of three boarding houses here, said she had not previously worked as a domestic—but took the place in the O'Malley home especially to find out what she could.

Twenty-five Die In Bomb Blast

HANKOW, April 24.—(P)—An estimated 25 men and women were killed and 100 injured seriously today when an unidentified person threw a bomb in the midst of a crowd of Chinese who were celebrating with a few Japanese and under Japanese direction the establishment of a new Japanese-organized city government here.

In addition to those hurt directly by the blast, many were trampled in a stampede.

David H. Boatright

David H. Boatright, former Sedalia, resident of Albuquerque, N. M., for 58 years, died recently at his home there. He had been ill for about three weeks. He was mayor of Albuquerque about 22 years ago.

Mr. Boatright went there from Sedalia in 1883 and was employed by the Santa Fe Railroad in its paint shop. Later he entered the mercantile business, running a general store. More recently, he operated the Boatright Rubber Company.

Mr. Boatright is survived by three sons, Charles C. Boatright of Santa Fe, Frank J. Boatright of Boston, and James C. Boatright of Gallup. He is survived also by a sister, Miss Minerva Boatright, of Albuquerque. The late E. F. Boatright of Sedalia was a brother.

Mr. Boatright was a life member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Elks. He was prominent in Republican politics for many years.

Funeral Of Mrs. Murphy.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary G. Murphy, who passed away at her home, 1301 East Sixth street, was held at St. Patrick's Catholic church at 9 o'clock this morning with a solemn requiem high mass said by the Reverend Father W. J. McGrane, pastor.

Friends who served as pall bearers were: Dr. John B. Carlisle, A. W. Goldsmith, James Askern, Matt Mulalley, W. J. McDowell and J. P. Blythe.

Burial was in the Calvary cemetery.

Funeral Of Mrs. Baker

Funeral services for Mrs. Noble Baker, wife of George Baker, who passed away in Los Angeles, California, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Gillespie Funeral Home with the Reverend R. W. Leazer, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Music was in charge of Mrs. B. B. Bess.

Pall bearers were the following friends: Tom Cox, Oran Williams, Robert Wingate, James Bower, Richard Sprecher and Undrill Renshaw.

Interment was in the Crown Hill cemetery.

James M. Atkins

James M. Atkins, aged 71 years, a former Sedalia, passed away at 6:20 o'clock this morning at the General hospital in Kansas City.

He was born and spent practically all his life in Pettis County being for many years a farmer in the neighborhood of Striped College. Before going to Kansas City about two years ago he conducted a grocery store in East Sedalia.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Atkinson, a son Virgil Atkinson, of Kansas City, and four daughters. Mrs. Mildred Lewallen, Mrs. Merwyn Jones, of Kansas City, Mrs. Charles Rockwood, Independence, and Mrs. L. E. Anderson, of Concordia, Kas.

The body will be brought here Tuesday morning and will be taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home to remain until Thursday when the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock at the Pleasant Hill church with interment in the cemetery there. The Rev. R. L. Sturges, of Kansas City, will officiate.

Stocks Decline In Slow Session

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—The stock market lost heart today when an early mid rally failed to follow through and initial gains running to a point or so for leaders were converted into declines of as much as the close.

Transfers of approximately 400,000 shares made for another one of the slowest sessions since last June.

Sentiment seemed to have revived at the opening on the overnight announcement the British ambassador to Berlin had returned to his post.

Slight Drop To Grain Market

CHICAGO, April 24.—(AP)—Losses of as much as 1/2 cent in wheat and a full cent in corn at times today reflected lower prices abroad, favorable weather conditions in most sections of the grain belt and a more peaceful tone of European political news.

St. Louis Grain Market

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—(AP)—Cash grain: Wheat: 25 cars, steady; No. 2 red 78c; No. 2, 77c.

Corn: 7 cars, unchanged to 1/2 cent lower; No. 2 yellow 51c to 51 1/2c.

Tongue Still Danger Signal, but Today Diagnostician Must Study
Entire Body

Doctors of the earlier generation of a patient by looking at the tongue. Much was made of the various kinds of coatings and of the color of the tongue. Indeed, the entire digestive system.

The modern doctor still continues to inspect the tongue and can learn a great deal from it, but we have learned that the conclusions depend not only on the tongue but on the study of the condition as a whole. It has been suggested that today tongues move so much and so rapidly that there is hardly time for them to acquire a coating.

People who have constant disturbances of intestinal digestion frequently have thickening of the tongue with a development of a coating. Associated therewith, are a foul breath and a constant bad taste in the mouth. The ordinary coating consists of molds and bacteria as well as waste material from food and from the mouth.

Sometimes the surface of the tongue is itself infected. This demands most careful consideration with a study of the material bringing on the infection, and with the application of washing and treatment to remove it.

In certain diseases, particularly in anemia and in the dietary deficiencies such as pellagra, the tongue appears red and inflamed. In fact, the common name for this is burned tongue.

In these cases the provision of iron and of liver to make up the deficiency should result in a prompt improvement in the appearance of the tongue. Nicotinic acid also is proving useful in these cases.

The immediate care of the tongue, when it is inflamed, may involve the application of a protective material like petrolatum or vaseline and perhaps also the

Stories in Stamps

The Gilbert Islands—
Where the East Begins

THE news spotlight seldom turns on the Gilbert and Ellice Islands, British protectorate in the South Seas. The last time the whole world took interest was when the aircraft carrier Lexington and three escorting destroyers pushed as far west as these islands in search of Amelia Earhart. Now the islands are drawing attention again but this time only because of the British new "reign" stamps picturing life on these Pacific dots.

These islands are so far west that they mark where the east begins. They lie in the Pacific just across the international date line, about 1600 miles southwest of Hawaii. The total area is roughly 180 square miles and the population is about 35,000. But this 180 square miles is scattered over a million square miles of ocean.

Because of their location, the islands are expert boatmen. Around this group of islands swirls a mighty Pacific current westward along the equator. This is a drift which would carry a floating object 10 to 40 miles a day. Natives often take advantage of this drift to make long open canoe voyages. There is the story of two islanders whose boat traveled 1300 miles in this relentless current.

Life for the islanders is a leisurely affair for the most part. Copra and phosphates are exported but with no great industry. The British, who rule the islands, are building up this commerce. The islands, incidentally, are even named for the British captain who explored the group thoroughly in 1788. An island boat scene is shown above on a new stamp of the protectorate, one of 12 values. Raising a Family

Boys Bow To Rule Of Herd
When It Comes To Clothes
By Olive Roberts Barton

You can hurt a boy far more through his clothes than a girl, despite the traditional joke about woman's vanity.

It is peculiarly true of the growing boy, not young enough to be indifferent or old enough to be philosophical.

Boys don't want to be handsome or dandified. They want to feel manly. And to feel manly it seems that you have to have your knees covered, and wear what the other fellows are wearing regardless.

There has always been some sort of war on about Junior's clothes. It used to be curls and kilts. Many little boys in grandma's day wore both until they were six. Gradually they became a martyred minority. Then began an epoch of sore trouble for the fond mammas who could not bear to lose their babies. For the last of the "sissy boys" turned into veritable demons. People gave them a wide berth.

That is just about the best example of wrong dressing and its reaction on conduct that I can think of. The male, young or old, simply cannot stand being a minority. To look too young, or too feminine, is unbearable.

Now the battle is on again. This time it lies between the shorts worn by the younger lads and the knickerbockers of the eight-and-overs.

In this case, however, it is not a matter of looking like girls but of wanting to look as "old" as possible. Once put a pair of knickerbockers on Johnny and then try to get him, back into shorts. Mothers ask me what to do. I am sure I don't know.

Best To Make Concessions

I tried to tell a boy of seven that shorts and knee-length socks are worn across the water by boys up to fourteen. All year 'round, too. He wasn't interested. What he wanted was to look like the other fellows in his room at school and they nearly all wore knickerbockers.

When it comes summer, he will be happier. Then, you see, he will have more company in the shorts-brigade.

The best way, I suppose, is to make concessions to boyish complexes. But boys in turn must be able to take advice.

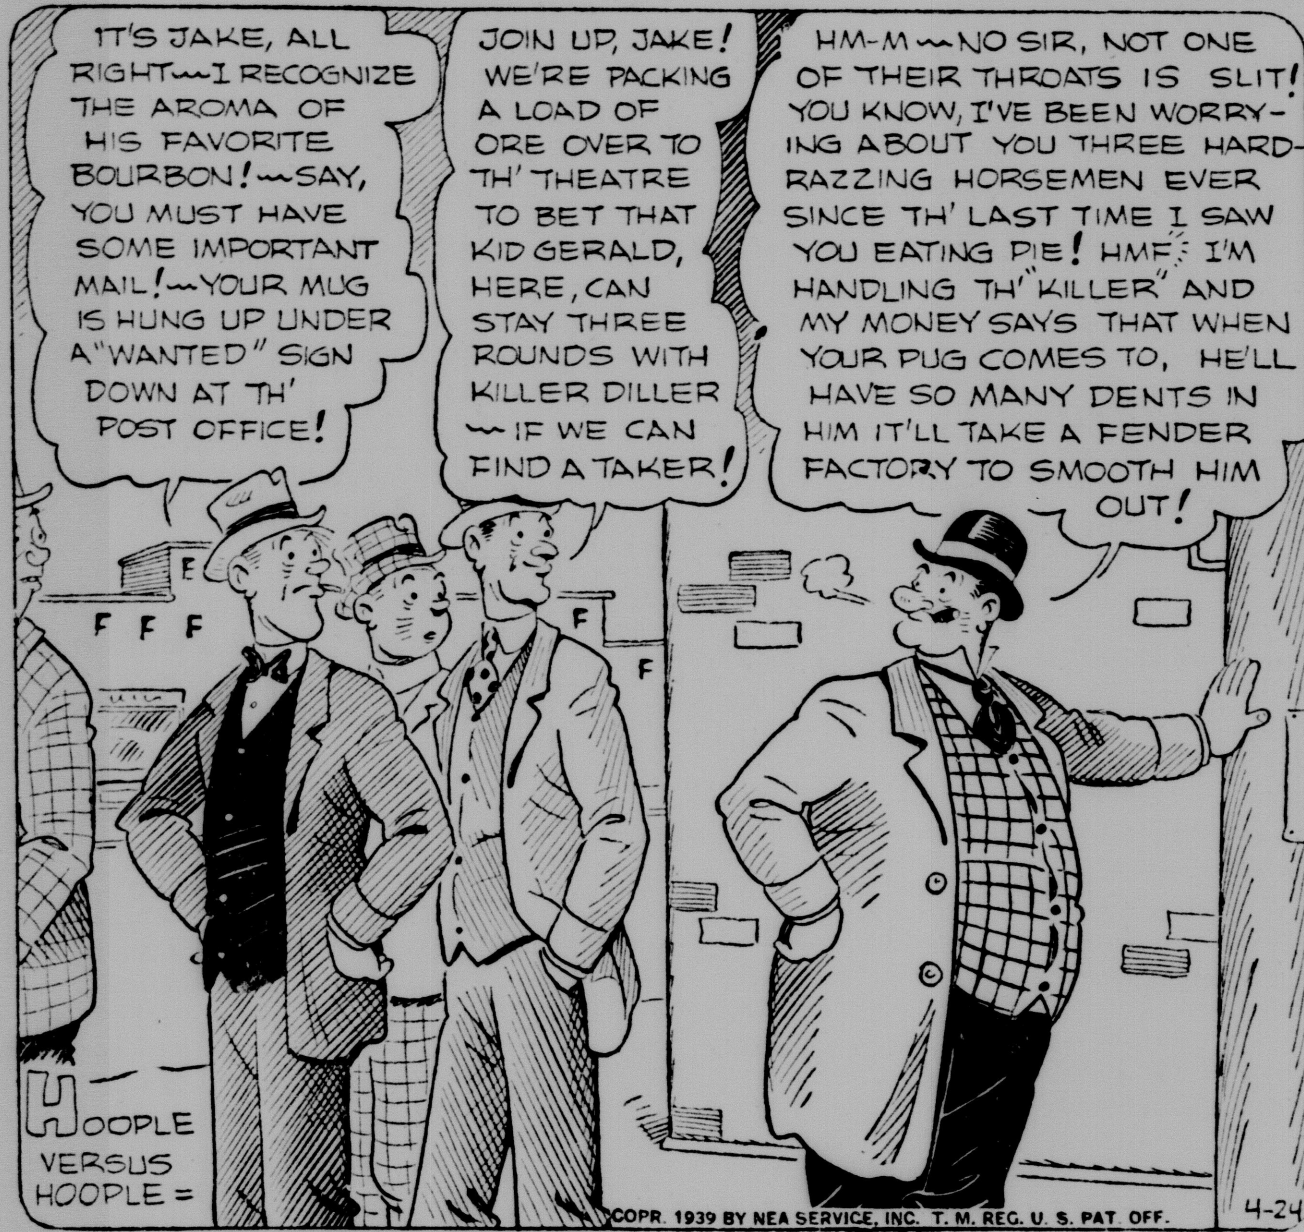

A photograph of the planet Pluto was found in a collection of astronomical photographs at Harvard university. The picture had been taken through a 16-inch telescope on Nov. 11, 1914, sixteen years before the planet actually was discovered.

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT UNTIL YOU BUY YOUR NEW CAR

YOU MAY BE ABLE to pay cash for your new car. But, after you learn our financing charge and the insurance coverage, you may prefer to keep your cash in reserve and pay for your new car out of your income on the Commercial Credit guaranteed monthly payment plan. The total cost is probably much less than you imagine. Why not find out?

Rate Guaranteed—No Hidden Charges

If we handle your time payment transaction on your new car through your local dealer, we guarantee that the financing rate you will pay does not exceed $6.00 per year per $100 (50 cents per month) on your original unpaid balance plus charge for the insurance you receive, payable in 12 to 18 or more equal monthly installments. Some states require a small charge for filing, recording or tax, which is added. This rate is available on any make of new car through acceptable dealers anywhere in the United States. No hidden charges for "investigation" or otherwise.

Insurance That Protects You

You will receive from one of the largest insurance companies an insurance policy or certificate. This will protect you against loss by fire—actual value; theft—broad form; collision—deductible type; and other accidental physical damage to your new car.

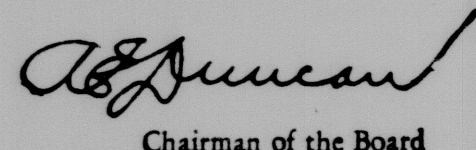

We guarantee that you will get exactly the coverage you pay for and will not pay any more for such insurance than the published rates charged by this insurance company for the territory in which you live.

Finance Through Your Dealer

Our many years of experience with millions of time payment transactions prove that your local dealer can best handle all details of financing your new car. He can arrange everything, at one place, one time. You can depend upon the dealer for your financing when he gives you Commercial Credit service.

There are 192 local offices in the United States offering Commercial Credit service. These offices and their employees are as much a part of your community as your druggist or grocer. They are courteous and helpful.

You will find it to your advantage to request Commercial Credit guaranteed financing service when you buy your new car.

Mrs. Wheeler In Address To A PTA Group

Installs Officers At Washington School Friday

Mrs. Frank Wheeler, recording secretary of Missouri congress, stated in her address at the Washington Parent Teacher Association that the P. T. A., is an educational institution. All the activities being educational and instructive. An academic degree is not requisite in becoming educated.

"People are different as well as work. A certain type of person may be better fitted to do a certain type of work and this is well, but not always possible. Education is not for the purpose of money making. Education is the knowledge to make use of the task at hand.

"The foundation of American life is in the home. Our education is for the purpose of raising the standard of home life and if necessary, rebuild it. This is our challenge. 'Our challenge to parents and teachers.' What type of neighbors we are, what type of neighbors, our children become, largely depends on the standard we set. This is part of the P. T. A. program. Home making is more important than housekeeping.

"We must make our children our friends; and their friends, our friends, if we would pass to them a high standard. Most of their religious training is acquired in the home. This torch must be kept burning, if we would have them be good neighbors; not only local neighbors but foreign neighbors as well. The Christian standard is our highest standard and the home can accept the challenge to maintain the Christian standard if we desire to rid ourselves and our children of unworthy theories that are prevalent today.

"The standard of freedom is part of our heritage. The P. T. A. work is an example of freedom. Regardless of prestige, religious or political affiliation, anyone may join the P. T. A. and take part in the expanding of this movement. Leaders are necessary, but so are followers. All have a part in this world wide organization.

"Parents are effective as teachers; teachers of the home. Children imitate what they see, so as parents and teachers, let us act wisely and well, so may our children and students act wisely and well also. This is our challenge."

Officers Installed

Mrs. Wheeler also installed the new officers for the ensuing year with a very beautiful and impressive ceremony: Mrs. Everett Monberg, president; Mrs. James Atkinson, 1st vice president; Mrs. Joe Smetna, 2nd vice president; Mrs. John Rose, 3rd vice president; Mrs. Howard Mayo, recording secretary; Miss Frances Garmen, treasurer.

The orchestra under the direction of Miss Marion Smith, played two numbers, "Inauguration March" and "Corona Overture."

The school program was as follows:

Rhythm Band played

1. The Rhythm Band.
2. Onward Christian Soldiers.
3. My Little Attic of Dreams.
4. The Blacksmith.

The Choral Choir recited: "The Owl and the Pussy Cat," by Edward Lear.

The third grade chorus sang, "The Umbrella Man."

Concluding the committee reports, Mrs. Howard Mayo presented Mrs. William Reed, president, with a past president pin in esteem of her loyal service.

The Third grades won the prize for having the most mothers and guests for their respective afternoon, being 50 in number.

Timely Briefs of Shops and Rails

Indications that a heavy program is in store at the Missouri Pacific shops in the immediate future, according to G. T. Calender superintendent of shops.

A heavy locomotive repair program which will feature the remodeling of three passenger locomotives of the small 5301-07 class. Many changes will be made in this type locomotive such as increasing the diameter of the drivers, change valve gear, apply roller bearings, increase boiler pressure and other necessary improvements.

Equip the engine trucks, trailer trucks and tender trucks of 10 passenger locomotives of the 6601 to 29 class complete with roller bearings and apply stream lined pilots.

Having just completed the remodeling and redecorating of four diners new work in the coach shop will include the remodeling and redecorating of four passenger train cars. One all steel coach to be converted to a de luxe grill coach, one coach cafe lounge car into a straight coach cafe car.

Remodel two coach parlor cars by lowering ceiling, installing display side board, with cooler well for bottled goods and otherwise modernize the cars with latest styles and designs. All of these cars will have new lighting effects, new modern furnishings and be the last word in traveling comfort.

This new work is but a small part of the program which is scheduled for the Sedalia shop. "We are doing every effort to
